GDPR COMPLIANCE

Following the GDPR regulations that are being implemented in May 2018, John Wilde & Co (Metals) Ltd have reviewed its privacy policy and how the company handles your personal data.

AIM

The aim of this policy is to provide you with information about the following:

- What information we collect from you and why;
- How we use this information; and
- How you can access and manage your information.

We are committed to protecting and preserving your information, being transparent about what data we hold and how we use it. We've tried to make this Privacy Policy easy to understand.

SCOPE

This policy applies to anyone who uses the websites of, or who buys or uses any of the saleable items / services provided by, John Wilde & Co (Metals) Ltd. When we refer to "we" or "our" or "John Wilde" we are referring to John Wilde & Co (Metals) Ltd.

OVERVIEW

We collect information about you when you buy from us or use any of our services. We may share this information between us so we can provide the services you order and manage your account.

When purchasing items, using any of our services or visiting our websites you agree to our use of your information as set out in this privacy policy. This privacy policy forms part of and should be read in conjunction with the terms and conditions on our website and any additional terms you are provided with in relation to our services.

INFORMATION WE COLLECT

1.) Information you give us

When you place an order with us for anything your purchase from us we will need certain information to process your order. This may be information such as your name, private/business postal address, telephone or mobile number, email address, information to help us identify you and to provide a service to you. We may ask for other information that relates to the service you are using or items you are ordering.

When you contact us to discuss your services, we may ask for certain information to be able to confirm your identity, check our records and answer your questions quickly and accurately.

If you complete any survey we may ask for information about you, which we will make clear to you at the time and for the purpose we will be using this information.

2.) Information we automatically collect

We will automatically collect information:

- when you visit our websites, we may collect and process information about your usage of these by using “cookies” and other similar technologies (see Cookies section below) to help us make improvements to the websites and to the services we make available. We may use this information to provide you with location-based services, such as search results, and other personalised content. Most browsers and devices allow you to turn off location services. Our website does not collect precise information about the location of your device you are using.

3.) Information we receive from other sources.

We may receive personal information about you from third parties, such as companies contracted by us to provide services to you, other telecommunications operators, marketing organisations, and credit reference agencies (CRAs) or fraud prevention agencies (FPAs)

HOW WE USE INFORMATION

The information we collect helps us to better understand what you need from us and to improve the provision of our services to you.

We use the information collected for example to:

- verify your identity when you use our services or contact us;
- process your enquiries or orders, for example when assessing a part you require, we may use internal systems to check historical orders and provide you with the correct information.
 - monitor, record, store conversations, e-mail or other electronic communications with you for training purposes, so that we can check any instructions given to us and to improve the quality of our customer service, and in order to meet our legal and regulatory obligations;
